LOU SOUE IN TROUBLE.

A Fert Worth Celestial in the Dallas Juil Charged With Robbing Bls Countrymen-

Dallas, Tex., June 7 .- Lou Soue is a pig-tailed and almond-eyed celestial as his name implies. Lou is engaged in usiness at Fort Worth. He knocks the dirt out of soiled garments for the heathm Caucasians, hits the pipe at his leisure and is as meek and as lowly as any celestal who ever took passage from Hong Kong. Louis in the county jull in this nty to-day, and is a dejected looking barbarian, to say the least. He was arrested in the city of Fort Worth last Sheriff Frank Darby and brought to this city on two charges-ofting games and swindling. The facts in the case as near as a rerter could get at them are as follows: Two or three days ago several Chinamen, who shall be called for the want of better names, One Lung, Two Lung, No. lang, Sing Hi, Lo Sing, Tun Wa and Wung Ke, called on the prosecuting atturney. They had an interpreter them, a sleek, well-fed Mongolian, who proceeded to unfold a tale that was not a pg-tail. In Angust last, as the story goes, a sad-eyed celestial, without guile ind as meek as a mouse, dropped into lallas and made himself known to his countrymen. He was given a grand reexplan, and was wined and feasted during his stay. The visitor was not averse to a game and, as is well known, Chinese are inreterate gamesters. He exhibited a roll and the supposition is that the Dallas word thought they had caught a sucker and they determined to 'Shake him down.'' Deladed mortais! The visitor would not play, but he was willing to be lilated into the mysteries of the game. le lest a small sum of money, and then argested that away back in the Flowery Kingdom he had played fantan in his oyhood. Did they play the game? Oh, They were delighted at the start. At the close, however, they were distusted. The stranger caught one heathen for $2120 and others for less amounts, and when he departed the victims swore that they were broke and he carried tway their hard earnings in a fat gripsee. According to the interpreter the Pallas gamesters never located the winuntil a few days ago, when they made the discovery that he lived in Fort Worth and his name it was Lou Soue. Bs had robbed them, they said, "alle same as Melican man. He heap belly and Chinaman. '' The prosecuting atterney sent the celestials to the grand ary and that body returned two indict-Bents against Lou Soue. Last night, Armed with the warrants and accompasied by three Chinese, Frank Darby Taited Fort Worth and made the arrest, who swore that Lou Soue was the man Ben Ayres, prosecuting attorney of larrant county, returned with the officer and the prisoner. Lou Soue is a protego of Ben's, and the good natured attorney erears that the prisoner has not be watside of the city limits of Fort Worth he two years until to-day. He gives on a splendid reputation, and says that he is the "squarest"! Chinaman he has tter known. According to Ayres Lou is opposed to the high binders and has stined the bitter emuity of that Eganization, which has adherents a Dallas and Fort Worth. They hate swurn to drive Lou Soue out of the untry and have harrassed and perserated him for several years. The Fort orth gung made poor bendway in their ight, however, and cailed upon several their organization in Dallas to aid in removing the object of heir hatred. Ayres says he knows this to be the case, and that he does not propose to stand by and see an honest, industri-'jobbed' by a band of high bladers if he can belp it.

Correspondence of the Gazette. Ausrin, Tax., June 6 .- J. H. Nolan vs. John Mendere, from Grayson county; opinion by Gaines, J. Appellant and appellee owned adjoining lots in Denison. The appellee put on his lot a building, the east line of which ran to the west line of defendant's lot. Defendant the west line of defendant's lot. Defendant's subsequently erected a wooden shed on his lot by enclosing three sides, appeliee's wall acting as an enclosure for the fourth. Suit was brought for damages for an injury to said wall caused by appellant in attaching his wooden structure thereto, and also to receiver compensation for the use of the wall. The testimony is conflicting as to the question whether defendant's structure was annexed to The testiment is conflicting as to the question whether defendant's structure was annexed to and touched plaintiff's wall or not; there was also some conflict as to the damage done. The court charged that if defendant used plaintiff's wall the plaintiff would be entitled to recover for such use. If the legal proposition involved in the charge is correct, then the charge is deficient in not staining what constituted such use as to make defendant liable. But is the legal proposition correct? We think not. The law seems to be that if one proprietor encloses his land, putting his fence on his lins the owner of the adjacent land may avail himself of the advantage thereby offered him of enclosing his own land, without having to account for the use of his neighbor's fence, excepting for injury to it. There is no difference between farm property and city property in this respect. Appellant connecting his structure without touching or otherwise encrosching on appellee's wall, the wall simply serving as an inclosure, was not liable to account for the use of the wall. Reversed and remanded.

Schneider & Davis, vs. F. Ferguson & Son, from Dailas county, opinion by Gaines, J. Suit brought by apellecs to recover danages for wrongfully suing out an attachment. In their petition they set out the property levied on and describe it by saving: That the stock of goods on hand at said date consisted of sait, coal oil, apricots ... (exumerating a number of other goods). That all of said property was reasonably worth the sum of $600 and that plaintiffs are unable to give a more accurate description of the same." A property was reasonably worth the sum of $600 and that plaintiffs are unable to give a more accurate description of the same. A special exception to the sufficiency of the description of the property was overruled. This was error. It may happen that the plaintiff cannot describe each article taken, but in such a case the pleadings should state the facts rendering it impracticable to give a specific description, and should not rest upon the mere allegation that a more particular description is impossible. The second point made is upon the admissibility of some textimony which involves the question whether testimony which involves the question whether testimony is admissible to show that the officer's return, on the writ of attachment was incomplete, thereby enabling plaintiff to recover far more goods than are shown by this writ to have been taken. In none of the cases in this state involving the conclusiveness of the sheriff's return has it been held that as between the parties to the suit in which the return was made can the return be impeached in a collateral proceeding. In other states the authorities are overwheiming that the return under such circumstances cannot be attacked, and we are of the opinion that in this suit is was incompetent to show that more goods were taken than appeared in the return. to the great delight of the other pig-tails, not be attacked, and we are of the opinion that in this suit it was incompetent to show that more goods were taken than appeared in the return. This action being for exemplary as well as actant damages, it was proper for plaintlifs to show that they had made arrangements to replevy the goods taken under a prior attachment, and that they had made arrangements to replevy the goods taken under a prior attachment, and that they had made arrangements to replevy the goods taken under a prior attachment, and that they had made arrangements to replevy the goods taken under a prior attachment, and that they had made arrangements to replevy the goods taken under a prior attachment, and that they had made arrangements to replevy the goods taken under a prior attachment, and that the fine rains this week and the rain that is now falling. ton, C. J. The city of Gleburne is incorporated under the general laws of this state, and this is a proceeding to compet the mayor and aldermay of that city to bear and determine the contest of an election between McCray and one Keith for the office of city marshal. All the necessary steps had been taken for the contest, but the council decided it had no jurisdiction to determine the contest. The question of jurisdiction of the city council is the question before us now. Art. 367, Rev. St., declares that the council shall be the judge of the election and qualifications of its own members. This is the only law which in terms confers on a city council power to pass on the validity of an election, except as such a power is to some extent involved in the canvassing of the votes and declaration of the result of an election, the statute quoted does not give the jurisdiction contended for in this case, and the difference is that this statute confers all the power of this character, which it was intended the council should exercise. It is claimed that Arts. 221 and 418, Rev. St., confer the necessary power, but the fact that city councils are made the judges only of the election and qualification of their own members precludes the holding that they were made the judges of the election of other officers, or that it was intended to give them through the power to pass ordinances for the general welfare, the International and Great Northern Railroad Company vs. T. M. Prince from Hays county; opinion by Stayton, C. J. The main question in this case now is, after having been before this court once before [6 Tex. 144] whether the evidence supports the allegation in the petition to the effect "that the company was not accustomed to transport passengers on its hand cars, but that on the occasion when appelles was injured he was invited by the company with others to take passage on the land car, for the purpose holding an inquest at some place on the road, which the company for its own vindication desired to be held. "Under the evidence did not justify a finding that Herum had authorily to use the hand-cars as they were used, for the evidence tends to show that he was the venezantative of the company on that part der the evidence in the case we cannot hold that the evidence did not justify a finding that Herum had authorily to use the hand-cars as they were used, for the evidence tends to show that he was the representative of the company on that part of its road in respect to all matters connected with the use of the road, cars of all kinds, etc. His a ts may be desired the company's acts. The question of extent of power was submitted to the jury and their verdict is conclusive of the question. The charge of the court properly submitted the question of fellow servant and unavoidable accident to the jury, and only held defendant to ordinary care. The charges of the defendant complained of were properly refused. One interregation propounded to a witness as follows: Please state any other fact or facts within your knowledge regarding the matter, the same as if directly questioned about it, was objected to at the trial on the ground that it was general and did not tend to elicit any particular fact. The objection was one that went to the manner and form, and should have been made before the trial. Appellant filed copies of lelegrams on which the jury of inquest was taken out, and the operator was permitted to state the message substantially as the copy filed. This was properly admitted. Affirmed.

Matilda G. Bradford et al. vs. Thomas J. Knowles et al., from Guadalipe county; opinion by Henry, J. Suit by appellant for 1200 acres of land, Defendants were over objection allowed to introduce the record of a case decided in 1878, in which the plaintiffs here were plaintiffs. From that record the court found as a matter of law that the plaintiffs here were plaintiffs. From that record the court found as a matter of law that the plaintiffs had elected in each suit to repudiate the deed under which they now claim that they are bound thereby and by the judgment rendered. We think the judgment rendered in 1878 must be given exactly the opposite effect to that held by the court in its conclusion of law. By the pleadings are only loo

New York, June 7.—The slock market to-day, outside of trusts and one or two specialties, was extremely limited, and dealings for the host part were without significance. The disposition at present is to await action of the silver bill, and trading to-day was confined almost exclusively to room traders, who were inclined to hammer stocks in the early morning. The early demand was sufficient to create a sight demand for stocks after an irregular opening, but the pressure later wiped but the gains, and prices in most stocks refreed alightly below those of opening. OFFICE OF THE GARRYTE,
FORT WORTH, TEX., June 7, 1899.
Business in the retail departments in the city to-day showed quite an improvement over the brisk in all lines. Wholesale houses, too, report good orders being filled.

The city's general markets, produce, garden, vegetables, poultry, etc., were all well patronred to-day, and customers had good supplies to select from in all commodities. There are no changes in any quotations of note to mention, and most articles are firm at prices given.

In ten years, says the American Banker, the Southern states have risen from stagnation to abounding prosperity; and their material advancement has been greater proportionally than that of any other part of the Union. In 1890, it was $,29,165,490. Accepting the estimate of the census of 1850 that the assessed value as only 41 per cent. of the true value, we find that the South gained over $3,00,000 in properto during that short period. In 1859 its production of pig iron was only $37,291 tons. In 1859 it was 1,550,702 tons. The progress in this industry is going on at an accelerated pace, furnaces capable of turning out over 1,000,000 tons annually being now under construction, or contracted for in the region. Alabama, according to the Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, possesses riches in iron which "threaten the unjesty of the Northern iron and coal fields;" and "only the Southern suggard has hitherto given the race to the North." In 1852 the South produced 5,509,316 tons of coal. In 1859 the out-put was 19,467,418 tons. The coal fields of the South, extending from Wheeling, in West Virginia, to northern Alabama, are practically inexhaustible. The production of cotton was 7,209,316 bales in 1855; in 1858 it was 6,388,-290, and for the present year it is estimated at 7,250,000 balos. In other words the South is now producing about 7,000,000 out of the 19,690,000 to 11,000,000 balos which constitute the whole cotton crop of the world. Freedom is doing far better than slavery in the rating of the great staple. The number of spindles in cotton manufac
